Queens Win Championship By Defeating McGill

Bill Hughes Netted Tying Goal Ten Seconds After Gong Sounded—Will It Count?

McGill Team All Individual Stars

Half Time Score 3 to 1 For McGill—Great Excitement When Queens Made the Final Score 9 to 3

(SPECIAL WIRE FROM DAILY REPRESENTATIVE WITH THE TEAM.)

Kingston, Feb. 20.—In a game replete with sensation, Queens hockey team this evening defeated the McGill White and Red, most closely contested battle of the intercollegiate series. From the moment the puck was first faced off, and Wally Smith, the Queens star, was hurt, until the game broke up with the score 1 to 3, on a contested decision, it was a match of excitement. Whatever the decision, Queens has won the intercollegiate championship for the season of 1914. Whether McGill should receive the goal which was netted at the second stroke of the gong, will not be decided until the intercollegiate executive takes up the case. The bell is a small one, and the first stroke was not heard by the referee, who allowed the game to continue ten seconds longer before the second stroke.

TIETING GOAL

Billy Hughes, amidst the wild excitement, had shoved in the tying goal. On whether the game ends with the sounding of the gong or the signal there, will decide the score made to-night's game. It was a battle of individual rushes, with team work almost entirely absent in both aggregations. The short ice stretch—ice on both sides—broke any attempts at combination. The rink was packed, and 1,800 people reared themselves hoarse with excitement, as each team, almost alternately, evened the score.

SKATING PARTY IS TONIGHT

Second and Third Years Invited

CAMPUS RINK

The second skating party of the season to be held under the auspices of the Social Committee of the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A. is to be held this evening on the campus rink.

Everything points to another most successful gathering. The committees have been working strenuously to make all the guests enjoy themselves. All the lady students connected with McGill and all second and third men are invited.

The guests are requested to assemble in the gymnasium hall at 8 o'clock sharp to fill their programmes. From there the ladies will journey to the rink to put on their skates. The men will put their skates on at the Hall. Music has been arranged for the different numbers.

After the skating numbers have been completed refreshments will be served in the Hall. Anyone who has attended these functions in the past knows with what success the committee caters, and it is hoped that a goodly percentage of those invited will be present to enjoy this latest party.

speech Dr. Chipman was loudly applauded. Messrs. McCready and Gallagher gave a splendid mandolin duet, and for an encore rendered very delightfully the "Barcarole."

W. J. Grant, and Chas. Arnold gave a report of the Medical dinner, which was successful socially, but financially.

Mr. Martin reported for the committee on the Faculty play. Although several designs have been received, none have been definitely accepted. He urged that suggestions be submitted before next Wednesday.

On closing Pres. Couillard intimated that all prize essays must be handed in by March 1.

The next meeting, a special one, will be held on Friday night, when Sir Wm. Leishman, Professor of Pathology at the Royal Army Medical College, London, will speak on "The Vaccine Treatment of Typhoid Fever." This meeting will be attended by both Faculty and students.

SECOND HALF BETTER.

The first half ended with the score 3 to 1 for McGill, but the Red and White played a better game in the last half than the first. Queens all through had a shade over their opponents, and the defence work of Mann again saved the Mounties from a much worse defeat.

Parsons, Rankin, Mann for the visitors and Wally Smith, McKinnon and Dobson for the Queens, were the best six players on the ice. Eric Parsons had it on all the rest for speed, stick handling, and shooting. The McGill players individually have never played a better game this year. No one man loitered at any part of the game, and in a rink where they were more accustomed to the boards, would probably have turned the odds.

ACCIDENTS.

Although, according to the Queens players, it was the cleanest game they have played, this match contained more accidents than any of the three other McGill games. The worst injury was received by Ray Smith, the Queens goal tender, whose chest stopped a terrific shot, and the stick of Dr. Smith. A cartilage of his ribs was broken. Quigley sustained a badly

ARTS DINNER GREAT SUCCESS

Menu and Toast List Unexcelled

NATION BUILDERS

Guest of Honour Says University Men Will Lead Country

"The Arts Department is the centre of the university," said Mr. Sargent P. Stearns, M. A., in his address at the sixth annual dinner of the Arts Undergraduate Society held at the Canada Club last night.

The dinner was a success in every way. The menu was an excellent one, and the order of speeches, the best ever. Every person privileged to attend voted that the affair had been worth while. Great credit is due to the Dinner Committee, to whose efforts the success of the dinner is entirely due. After the assembled guests had partaken of numerous courses, "Worthy to thrill the soul of sea-born Venus."

Or titillate the palate of Silenus."

The president rose to propose the health of the King.

In the enforced absence of Hugh Partridge, Mr. Viner was called upon to propose the toast to Alma Mater. In the course of his remarks, Mr. Viner pointed out that McGill had developed an individuality which had made her famous all over this continent. "McGill is a factor in the progress of Canada, and the betterment of Montreal."

"I had never known that the McGill Y. M. C. A. had such contempt for public opinion," said Principal Peterson by way of reply. This remark was occasioned by the fact that during the course of the dinner some exuberant youths had started up, "We are, we are, we are the McGill Y. M. C. A. etc."

"There is no greater agency in the Dominion of Canada," the Principal went on to say, "than McGill, for binding together the different portions of our scattered country. There is no university outside the British Isles that ranks above McGill in the eyes of the English people."

"You are doing your part," continued the Principal, "in training the spirit of McGill, that spirit of solidarity which makes McGill a true brotherhood."

The guest of honor was introduced by the President, who referred to the fact that Mr. Stearns was a graduate of Princeton, and had at one time been the American Consul at Montreal.

"Get the college spirit, which will make your university the greatest university you know," said the speaker of the evening after delecting the students present with evidence of his keen wit.

Urging the point of a student making use of his influence in the interests of the country, Mr. Stearns was led to say, "Take your part in the affairs of your nation. Canada has had an easy life, so far. When the crisis comes in Canada, ideas will clash with ideas, and the right will prevail. The leaders of the country will come from the Universities."

"There will be some here," said the guest in conclusion, "who will have a share in making Canada one of the great nations of the world."

In a speech which earned the unquestioned sympathy of every student present, Mr. E. F. L. Hanson deigned to disclose the peculiarities, the eccentricities and whims, the worth of the Professoriate.

Mr. Hanson stated that upon perusal of the calendar, he had discovered that there were five classes of professors in the Arts Faculty: those whom he had met outside the class-room, those whom he had listened to in class, those whom he knew by reputation, those whom he might be termed, "Occasional Visitors," and those whose names were entirely unknown to him. He stated that professors had to look after the intellectual, the social and the moral condition of the student. To ensure proper interest in the social side of college life, a Committee on Social Functions had been appointed. For the moral side of the student's life, the Board of Moral and Discipline was held responsible. The duties of this latter consisted in reclaiming rather than preventing the fall of students.

"You have heard our professoriate dissected," said Dean Moyse, who rose to reply. He stated that the faculty was a tractable team. It was composed of men of all shapes, all sizes, all heights and varying degrees of knowledge. Reference was made to the element of cosmopolitanism which was so large a factor at McGill.

The Dean also pointed out the phenomenal growth of the University. To illustrate his point he quoted statistics from the Montreal Gazette of September 14, 1884. In an article on McGill College, it was shown that at that time there were five professors in the Faculty of Arts, and one lecturer. In law there were one professor and two lecturers. At the present time, to show the startling development of the University, there were over sixty instructors in Arts and fully eleven in Law.

"There is need for a new Arts Building," said Dean Moyse, but the voice of the Arts faculty, though hampered, was not below what it should be. "The ship is fairly safe. I hope to see great developments in McGill in the future," concluded the Dean. "All will be in vain if we cannot act as one in possession of a unity of love, affection and pride in the Royal Institution for the Advancement of Learning."

In reply to the toast of the Sister Universities, proposed by Harry Beatty, the representative from Toronto and the delegate from Queens' both referred to the friendly relations existing between the great colleges of Canada and to the fact that each had to do her share in the training of men for the future leadership of the country.

The toast to the Sister Faculties was proposed by C. Tidmarsh. The representatives from Science, Law and Medicine, respectively, were Messrs. Montgomery, Tindale and Fleet.

Mr. Dunton proposed the toast to the graduates, which was ably replied to by Henry Morgan, '13, who advocated the establishment of a Graduates' Bulletin for the Arts faculty, such as that already published at intervals by the Faculty of Applied Science.

In proposing the toast to the Ladies, Dr. Fryer told several amusing anecdotes, much to the delight of all present. Dr. Caldwell, who replied, was prevailed upon to render a Scotch song, in which every one joined in the chorus. He also told of being mistaken for the manager of the "Kentucky Belles," one time, when awaiting a train at the Windsor station.

After Mr. Stearns had moved the health of the chairman, Norman Johnston, the gathering broke up at an early hour this morning.

The Ever-Present Gillette

Wherever you see men buying razors, in drug, jewelry or hardware stores—wherever you see men shaving, in club or Pullman or home—there you will inevitably find the Gillette Safety Razor purchased and used.

It has won the approval, almost the affection, of busy men whose time it saves—of thrifty men whose cash it saves—of particular men who value a clean, smooth face—of average men who never could shave comfortably with any other razor.

That's why over six million men use the Gillette, and why you can buy Gillette Safety Razors and Blades at practically every good Hardware, Jewelry and Drug Store in this town.

Standard Gillette Sets cost $5.00—Pocket Editions $5.00 to $6.00—Combination Sets $6.50 up. 6 double-edged blades, 50c.—12 Blades (24 shaving edges), in nickel-plated box, $1.00.

Science Students are Engaged In Widely Varying Occupations

Class Secretary hears of doings of members of Science '97.

Jack Bell now honors us, for the first time, with some intimate notes concerning himself and family. After graduating, he spent two years demonstrating at McGill, and then took up the more practical phases of mining in Colorado, Oregon and Idaho. From 1902 to 1906 he was mining engineer for the Glavin de Oro Mining Company, Chihuahua, Mexico. Since 1907 he has been assistant professor of mining at McGill. He intimates that Rittinger's Law of Crushing is utterly unreliable, having proven this fact conclusively in exhaustive tests at the McGill Laboratories. He states that the chief interest of this faculty will be a boon to mining engineers of the future. Jack was married in 1908 to Miss J. V. D. Huntington, of Scranton, Pennsylvania. A son, John H. Bell, was born to them in 1911, but survived only two months.

Graham Drinkwater is now vice-president of The Canadian Fairbanks-Morse Company. He very modestly accepts the promotion awarded to him in deprecatory phrases, which are intended to imply that he has been getting something not exactly deserved. Those who remember him through four years at College, will accept these statements concerning himself at their correct value.

H. L. Haycock is a member of the firm of Cauchon and Haycock, consulting engineers and railway commission agents, Ottawa, Canada. He spent the first ten years, after graduating, in acquiring experience in many parts of Canada, the United States and South America. He married in 1904, and has one daughter, aged three years.

Frank Packard sends a very brief account of himself and mentions something about being a "wretched author." It has not exactly been determined what he intends to convey by this term, and he manages to get by with the stuff he turns out and incidentally made a trip around the world during the past three years on the proceeds of his wretchedness. He surprised the Class Secretary one day in April by a personal visit in Los Angeles. Under the circumstances, we in the editorial sense are inclined to forgive his defections from the engineering ranks, particularly as he has promised an associate membership in our class for Mrs. Packard, who accompanied him on his trip.

R. W. Stovel is now located, professionally, at No. 37 Wall street, New York City. When not "at home," he may be located by reference to the above address. When last heard from, he was temporarily restrained at Vancouver, B.C., and according to his own confession, was investigating the abnormal rainfall in that vicinity. There is some reason to doubt the veracity of this confession, as it is a matter of record that Stovel revels in sour Rhine wine and Boston baked beans. His profanity is on the decline—although he severely criticizes the Class Secretary's methods—for all of which we are duly grateful. It should be understood that the bulletin will, except for publication, contumely, criticism, witicism or sarcasm from authoritative sources.

HON. GARIEPY A MCGILL GRAD

Is now Minister of Municipal Affairs in the Province of Alberta.

The Hon. Wilfrid Gariepy, B.A., B.C., M.P.P., was sworn in as Minister of Municipal Affairs in the Government of Alberta, of which the Hon. A. L. Sifton is the head, on November 28 last, and was subsequently on December 15, re-elected to the Provincial Parliament by acclamation as member for Beaver River. A French Canadian, Mr. Gariepy was born in Montreal on March 12, 1877, his father being Mr. Joseph H. Gariepy, who was educated at St. Laurent College, Laval University, and McGill University. Mr. Gariepy went to Alberta in 1903, and entered into legal practice in Edmonton under the firm name of Taylor, Boyle and Gariepy. This was changed in 1907 to Gariepy and Landry, and in turn to Gariepy, Groulx and Dunlop. In 1912, Mr. Gariepy was appointed King's Counsel by the Government of Alberta last year. He entered Provincial politics in 1909 as candidate for St. Albert, but was defeated at the polls, and his representation of Beaver River only dates from last year. The new minister has had considerable experience of public work in other directions. He was an alderman of Edmonton from 1907 to 1910, and has been a director of the Edmonton Exhibition Association, and Secretary of the Edmonton Canadian Club (1908), as well as president of the Alberta Union of Municipalities, the Edmonton Liberal Club, the St. Jean Baptiste Society, and the French Canadian Congress of Alberta. His wife, whom he married in 1903, was Miss Albertina Lessard, of Cranbourne, Quebec, and they have three sons and one daughter.

PROMINENT SENIOR DEFIES REGULATIONS

For the last week the Toronto University Library authorities have been exerting themselves to stop the practice some students indulge in, of taking books out of the library reading rooms during the day, and using them at lectures or at their rooms. As this practice directly contravenes all library regulations, it was decided that it must be stopped.

A prominent senior in University College was the first to be caught. On Friday last he filled out a slip which permits the use of the book only in the reading rooms, but he took it with him to one of his political lectures. Upon attempting to return the book to the desk, he found that his library card had been detected. Consequently his name has been chalked up on the bulletin board in the Library Building, and he has been denied all library privileges for one week.

BASKETBALL GAME TODAY

Red and White Senior Quintette Play Queens

IN KINGSTON

A Win for McGill Will Tie the League

Some of the McGill basketballers left yesterday morning, and the rest of them leave this morning to play Queens in their last scheduled intercollegiate fixture. The men have been working steadily all week, and are prepared to take another fall out of the Queens quintette. A win for McGill will make her tie with Varsity at the head of the league. A loss will give the Toronto-ians the championship.

Queens have not yet won a game, but on their own floor they expect to wind up the season with a victory. Knowing the determination of the wearers of the tricolor, the local basket toppers in their practices have devoted considerable time to improving their team work, with the result that their combination is much more consistent than it was last week. Kennedy and McTavish are both very good on the free shots, and have given ample proof through the season of their ability in scoring from what seem sometimes almost like impossible angles. Queens play a very strong defence game, so that it is exceedingly fortunate that in Baldwin and Smith McGill have two such capable assistant score makers. Lee Smith has played as a forward on one or two occasions, in fact, it is only recently that he has changed to defence, and is used to giving his quota towards the game. Capt. Baldwin at centre, has been improving all season; he is now at his very best. Under his guidance and stirred on by the example he will set, the red and white will be in good hands. The signals are working well; one of the new plays is likely to dazzle the Queens defence. Three other men will be on hand, any one or all of them may take part in the contest. Conover, Willisroft and Reid are all strong players.

For Queens, Sutherland and Hill will require watching; these men are very quick on their feet, and if not carefully covered might do some damage. The tricolor's defence will be picked from Watt, Laird and Buchanan. All are able checks. They will be hard to

SKI JUMPING ON MOUNTAIN

Competition on the M.S.C. Jump, Cote-des-Neiges Road To-day

PROSPECTS BRIGHT

Running at Shawbridge To-morrow — Dartmouth Sends Team

The McGill Skiers will be kept pretty busy this week-end. This afternoon the Red and White will compete in the annual jumping competition held by the Montreal Ski Club, on Cote des Neiges, while to-morrow they meet Dartmouth at Shawbridge.

The skiers representing the Red and White have made a very creditable showing to date, and a victory to-day and to-morrow will just about settle things. At Shawbridge, only McGill and Dartmouth skiers will engage in a cross-country race, which promises to be of great interest. Dartmouth skiers have been holding a number of meets during the winter, and as a result their material is now fully developed.

The M. S. C. jumps this afternoon are also of great importance, to the Red and White skiers, as all the men will be given a chance to show their worth, thus deciding the team to meet Dartmouth. At the M. S. C. jumps, it is generally expected that Dartmouth will enter a few men in Class "B" event. This event consists of swings. It is up to the candidates to show good natural ability and also to avoid clumsiness, in order to gain a place in this event.

In the jumps already held by the Montreal Ski Club, McGill representatives have shown good form, many of the men gaining their Class "B" certificates.

The following men are requested to turn up at the Montreal Ski Club jumps this afternoon:
 N. Williamson, K. H. S. Hague, C. G. Thompson, P. Strachy, L. Fisher, C. O. Pricker, P. McLeod and Buckley.

SKATING COMPETITION.

The annual R. V. C. Fancy Skating Competition takes place this morning at 10:30, on the R. V. C. rink. Miss Baker, Edwards and Mrs. Lambert will act as judges.

OVERTIME GAME WON BY FRESHIES

The Final Score of Close Match Was 6 to 5

The Science Sophomores went down to defeat at the hands of the Freshmen last night in a hard fought battle, which lasted 30.26 minutes overtime. The play was strenuous throughout, warlike tactics being exhibited by both contending parties. The Sophs. started off in a lively manner, netting five points before the Freshmen struck their gait. Then the First Year men lived up and tied the score without much effort. The game ended 6-5. After much discussion and post-mortem, between the rival camps, a sudden death period was decided upon, with the result that after the said 30.26 minutes (by Jimmie's stop watch) McCulloch, of the Freshmen, battled on in from centre ice amidst the deafening cheers of the vast audience, which consisted of two or three street urchins. The First Year stars were McCall, Pope, McCulloch, Poe, Jacques, Brophy and Upton. Andrews and O'Gorman played stellar hockey for the vanquished.

R.V.C. SENIORS HELD IMPORTANT MEETING

The R. V. C. seniors held a meeting yesterday, various business matters were discussed, the chief being the question of ushers for the Senior Play, and the election of a Valedictorian for the Class Day Exercises at Convocation. It was decided that eight girls should act as ushers for the play, and the following ones were decided upon:
 M. Hay, H. Willis, A. Corry, E. Howard, E. Chauvin, E. Bulkwell, J. Goldwater.
 Miss Willis was elected Valedictorian. After the discussion of a few minor matters the meeting adjourned.

INTERFACULTY SWIMMING MEET

Aquatic Experts Will Compete in Y.M.C.A. Tank

THIS AFTERNOON

Team for the Intercollegiate Meet Will Be Picked

The Interfaculty swimming meet, which is to be held this afternoon will have a very important bearing on the results of the intercollegiate meet while his scheduled for next week. All those who wish to try for the team which will enter that contest next Saturday and also who desire to aid their faculty to come out ahead in this competition should be on hand at the Central Y. M. C. A. tank at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

On top of the announcement that Geo. Hodgson and "Red" McLean will not be able to take part comes the news that Curly Walters, a diver of no mean repute, will not be able to take part on account of some difficulties he has had with the Faculty of Medicine. This will leave the weight of the diving events on Ed. McLean. Another diver as well as a long plunger are thus most urgently required.

The meet this afternoon may give some indications of the Red and White's chances in the more important event that is to come off next week. Two of the likely members of the team are in Kingston with the Basketball team, so that it is not at all improbable that the 50 yard race, at least, will be timed some day next week to pick between Baldwin, Smith and any others who show up to-day. Mr. Kendall, the swimming instructor of the Y. M. C. A., will act as judge this afternoon, and Mr. Lamb, the McGill gymnasium instructor, will be timer.

The events are:
 Long Plunge.
 Plain and fancy diving.
 50 yards.
 100 yards.
 220 yards.
 50 yards (back stroke).
 Relay race (4 men on a side).
 It is also possible that an exhibition polo game will be played.

Yale's present captain and ex-captains have expressed themselves unanimously in favor of allowing college men to take part in "Summer baseball."

"POP QUIZZES"

A class in the University of Texas has declared itself in favor of "pop quizzes," or unexpected class tests. The members are to be given credit for the courage with which they have expressed their convictions.

Our fathers who came to McGill know little of the meaning and significance of these "pop quizzes." Examinations were conducted on more or less easy system then, and there were fewer failures, because the small classes enabled the professors to keep in closer personal touch with the students.

The more rigorous examinations of recent times are the result of the growing disproportion between student body and tutorial staff. The principal has become an executive head, and is unable to meet more than a small percentage of the McGill undergraduates. The deans of the faculties can increase that percentage to what is still a very small fraction. Even the professors are able to meet very few of their students outside the limits of the class room or the lecture hour.

And so examinations have been introduced to ensure consistent work. At first, final examinations seemed to suffice for this. Mid-terms were introduced comparatively recently. Weekly and bi-weekly tests are of still later origin.

But students seem to think tests administered without any warning whatever are like blows when the back is turned. They might catch one prepared, and they might not. Their purpose is evidently to keep one persistently on the watch for such blows, and are apt to induce the idea prevalent in high schools and elementary schools where the system is often in popularity, that one must stick one's nose to the grindstone just enough to prepare the lesson of the one day following. More knowledge than is necessary to pass a sudden "quiz" in some high schools is deemed unnecessary.

These sudden death games, transferred from hockey to the class-room, where the starting gong rings without any notice, are very wearing on the nerves, and are a large price to pay for consistent work.

McGill Twenty-Four Months Ago

FROM THE MCGILL DAILY, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 21, 1912.

McGill summons her thousands to the grand re-union. Prof. Evans, Hon. General Secretary, reports satisfactory progress. The committee in charge of the Grand Re-union of graduates of all faculties in 1913, has prepared address lists of graduates.

At a meeting of the Electrical Club held in the Engineering Bldg., Mr. Henry Stuppel, of the fourth year, read a good paper on Transformer winding and construction and also discussed the testing of these transformers. Professor gave an instructive address on "Construction and Shop Work Practices."

Won. Lost.
McGill 3 1
Toronto 2 2
Queens 1 3

The record of the McGill Basketball team for 1912-13 has been one of reverses as well as of victories. That's why we're proud of their final showing. The team that can fight its way to the top rung of the intercollegiate ladder in the face of great obstacles deserves unlimited credit.

THINGS THEATRICAL

HIS MAJESTY'S.

"Fine Feathers" with an all star cast is the offering at His Majesty's Theatre for the coming week. This remarkable attraction comes here for one week beginning Monday, February 23, and local players are assured that they will see the entire original all star cast—the same that appeared during the season's run at the Astor Theatre, on Broadway, and including Robert Edeson, Wilton Lackaye, Max Elman, Rose Coghlan, Florence Rockwell and Lydia Dickson—the very cream of dramatic stardom.

There have been rumors afloat lately to the effect that there have been changes made in the original cast, but this was evidently occasioned by the fact that four ordinary companies are presenting this play in the less important cities. The original production of the play, however, has been kept intact for a special all star tour of the most important cities, which includes the cities in Canada. This is the first instance of an all star cast leaving Broadway in its entirety, and those who are familiar with matters theatrical can easily conceive the wonderful performance resulting from the best play written by Eugene Walter, and the acting of a cast of players whose achievements are among the most notable in American dramatic history.

CYRIL SCOTT, IN "THE DAY OF DAYS" AT THE STRAND.
Cyril Scott, the eminent romantic actor, who won such sensational success in the stellar roles of "The Prince Chap," "The Lottery Man," and other dramatic triumphs, etc., is ideally cast in "The Day of Days," a four-reel production by The Famous Players Film Co., to be shown at the Strand for three days commencing Monday, the 23rd. The play is adapted from the book by Louis Joseph Vance.

Riley Hern says:
"I am pointedly talked at betimes for using the perpendicular pronoun in speaking about this business."
"I do it because I wish you to know, in a large city, there is one big business where you will find a little fellow to give you his personal attention. I'm Johnny-on-the-spot always."

"Nor do I discuss philosophy nor abstract problems, with my customers, for we get together and are too busy in studying the new fabrics and fashions."

DOBBSON COULDN'T SCORE.
Ten penalties were administered, four of them closely together in the last half. Dobson on whom Queens depended to net the big scores against McGill, was so well held down by the Red and White, that he failed to score once, but he played a splendid supporting game, throughout. Wally Smith got away with the greatest total of scores for Queens, and his splendid rushes occupied well with Parsons.

INDIVIDUAL WORK.
Ramsay Rankin, with his fast twisting manoeuvres, often had the Queens' mer completely baffled for a time, and possession by him of the puck was the signal of a hour of warning from Queens fans. The McGill captain showed up to the brilliant attack as a stone wall defence. The four goals that passed Mann were largely from massed ploys on the part of Queens in front of his goal.

ATTACK AND DEFENCE.
Bill Hughes played his usual fast and consistent game. When toward the last half, after penalties had deprived both teams of two forwards, the score still stood four to three for the locals. The McGill captain showed up to the most splendid advantage. Ryley played the best game he has played yet. Davidson from start to finish kept up a furious pace. DeMuth, during the time he was on the ice, brought up the puck many times for good shots, while Parsons was more than ever the speed fender he has been in all the other games.

On the Queens side, next to Wally Smith and Dobson, Capt. McKinnon played a good game. He used his boards to the very best advantage. Ryley Smith, in goal, did splendid work, while little Box ran in some very fine individual rushes. Len Smith caused some of Rankin's and Parsons' shots. When Parsons ran into McKinnon there were less than four minutes of the last half to go, and McKinnon hit him. There was such excitement on the side benches that a light had been started the game would have broken up in disorder.

QUEENS WEAK POINT.
The only weakness of the Queens team was the propensity of the defence to follow the puck to the other end of the ice, leaving their goal almost entirely unprotected. It was only by the narrowest streaks of luck that Ray Smith, when he came out of goal, caught some of Rankin's and Parsons' shots. When Parsons ran into McKinnon there were less than four minutes of the last half to go, and McKinnon hit him. There was such excitement on the side benches that a light had been started the game would have broken up in disorder.

PLAY IN DETAIL.
The game started out with a catastrophe after Queens had vigorously assumed the aggressive. McGill returned north. In the return Wally Smith collided with Ryley and retired. Returns after minute with bandaged face. He starts in with a fast one along the boards. Mann clears nicely and Rankin brings up fast. The puck gets past Smith but passes over the net.

Boxer than took place the next five minutes has been rarely seen in intercollegiate hockey. DeMuth brings up a hot one which he shoots so swiftly Ray Smith who is with his chest receives a terrific blow.

Scholarships as Loans Suggests Dean at Tafts

This Would Tend to Develop a Higher Manhood, He Contends
—Need For Higher Salaries for Professors

Because he believes it would bring about an improvement in the development of manhood, Frank G. Wren, dean of the liberal arts department of Tufts College, in his annual report, recommends that scholarships be regarded as loans which the recipients shall repay after graduation.

Dean Wren supports his contention as follows:
"The administration of the scholarship funds presents a problem of vital importance. These funds are dispensed to needy students, provided they maintain the standard of scholarship required for securing a degree. I believe that this is a worthy object, and one which warrants the care which the committee on scholarships and aids exercises in the assignments. I believe the better results in the development of useful and manhood might be obtained if the assignments were considered loans and not gifts; loans without interest which the recipient would be expected to repay at some time in the future when his financial condition permitted. The funds returned in this way should be at the disposal of the scholarship committee, who could increase the amounts awarded to individuals and grant more assistance to cases especially worthy."
Announcement of the plans for the reorganization of the Crane theological school at the college was made in a special report submitted to the trustees by Dr. Leo S. McClester, who assumed the duties of dean of the school last fall. The report in part, is as follows:
"A preliminary announcement was sent out in a spring bulletin. Emphasis was laid on two courses—one a graduate course of three years, for those who have previously taken the A. B. degree, and an undergraduate course of five years, for those who have only the college entrance diploma. The second is a purely professional course."
"By the plan outlined, a student will gain practically the equivalent of the A. B. and B. D. degrees, but will receive only the B. D. degree. In both courses the three years and the five years, it is planned that men shall get as much laboratory work as possible, and it is the hope that students who start on the five-year course will see the need of increased training, and before they end their preparatory work, will have taken the A. B. degree also."

Marion's whereabouts, invites her to a bazaar, is seen by a wife that he already has. The girl is confronted by the wife who, taking in the situation in an instant, invites the girl to go to the same place with her and there she denounces him. Shaynon now begins to play his real game, when he gets a crook to act as chauffeur to run his game. The two women enter the machine together. Mrs. Inch is deposited at her own home, but the unfortunate Marion is locked up in a garage, where later Sybarite finds her. Sybarite is brought into the secret by being found in a gambler's den when a raid of the house occurs. He gets out over the roofs of the houses after stealing a sleeping policeman's coat and hat. The raid of the den, the chase over the house-tops, through courtyards and into the house of Mrs. Inch, who tells him where Marion has gone, is something worth while seeing. Then there is the raid of the garage, when at last a message intended for Shaynon is delivered into the wrong hands, and the police have been informed of the circumstances surrounding the abduction of Marion, and where also Sybarite delivers her from her prison and later finds a clergyman, who marries them.

each others way.
Queens are rushing in grand style. Box off for tripping Masson.

PARSONS ON.

Ramsay Rankin relieves a pressure on Mann. Brings up with wonderful rush. At sixteen minutes Parsons shoots on, replacing DeMuth. Ryley is shifted to wing. McGill is on the aggressive. Masson off for rough work. Rankin brings up two dandles, but Ray Smith clears one. Wally Smith the other.

Queens presses ahead. McKinnon shooting twice, but Mann clears. Masson signals his return by good rush along the boards. Queens return. Rankin tries a little backward skating. Suddenly comes the third score. The first real passing work of season takes place when Ryley and Parsons come up together. Smith clears but Ryley sends in the rebound. Regular Rugby. McGill 2; Queens 1.

Scrimmage in front of Mann, ends with Quigley at the bottom of the pile. Play halts while Quigley adjusts his feelings. Parsons playing wonderful game, again and again, with Rankin, shooting up the ice. Game swings up to McGill. Wally Smith starts stringing them. Rankin off for checking him. Dobson down with injured knee.

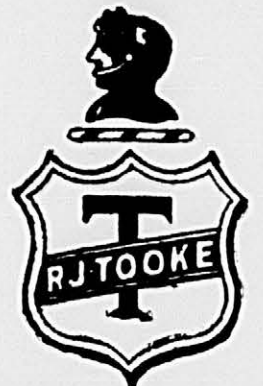

BILL SCORES.
News comes in intermission that Ray Smith's injury was a broken carriage in his ribs. Queens opens second half by pressing. Masson falls back to defence work and Bill Hughes goes forward more. McKinnon off for tripping Davidson. Bill Hughes comes down with an end to end rush and scores.

McGill 3; Queens 1.
Ryley off for tripping. Bill Hughes takes up another beauty but Smith clears. Hughes then comes back and the crowd goes wild when McKinnon scores on rebound off Mann. Queens now indulge in a combination game. McGill also bucks up well and play in end to end rushes is fast. It is nobody's game so far. Len Smith brings up good one, which gets past Mann. Score is tied.
Queens 3; McGill 3.

TOP SPEED.
Game still tremendously fast and exciting, though individual. Masson lost on the face. Game resumes, still fast. Hughes, Rankin and Parsons take up. Wally Smith and Dobson return. Queens defence, by balancing puck, leaves path open for effective shooting. Ryley off for rough checking. Quigley hurt in collision with Masson, and retires with twisted shoulder. After short resumption, Box is hurt, and immediately after Davidson retires. Len Smith hurt immediately play is recommenced. At first slow, play is suddenly quickened. Box scrapes in the goal which puts Queens ahead.
Queens 4; McGill 3.

SENSATIONAL FINISH.
The score is a signal for splendid rushes by McGill again and again. Rankin runs. Play stops in mid ice, when there is trouble between Parsons and McKinnon, whom the former has run into. Both men ruled off for the rest of the game. With the score against them McGill ran the tripler off their feet, and amid cries of "Watch your defence!" Parsons are pressed back and before the referee has sounded his bell, Billy Hughes sends in a final score. It was the closest and most sensational game of the season. Line-up—

Reasons Why Fox Breeding is a Profitable Undertaking For You

In 1910 a pair of foxes for breeding purposes could be purchased for $4,000; the following year, in 1911, the price had increased to $6,000; in 1912, to $10,000; and in 1913 as high as $25,000 was paid.

That these prices are likely to continue for the next five to ten years is the conservative opinion of disinterested parties who have studied the fox industry.

But, supposing that the prices of foxes, for breeding purposes, should gradually diminish and the foxes could be used only for their pelts.

Basing the price of a pelt at $1,000, although they have sold in the London market as high as $2,700, with 20 foxes (the number on our ranch) producing two pairs a year—some produce 3 and 4 pairs—the income from the sale of our pelts alone would be $50,000 gross profit on a capital of $450,000, which, after deducting cost of up-keep, would still leave at least 15% on the investment.

While the possibilities for enormous dividends are practically unlimited, even if breeding should decrease, the investor in any event is assured of a large income for the first five to ten years.

You want to know more about this wonderful industry, so write us to-day with your name and address on a postcard.
